

74.14 Cultural and Biological Research

Whereas, Research in weed and pest control methods are now virtually totally concentrated on chemical rather than cultural or biological control; and,

Whereas, Residues of such chemicals are contained in ever-increasing amounts in our foods;

Whereas, It is now common knowledge that both weeds and insects are fast becoming immune to chemicals; therefore be it,

RESOLVED, That the National Council of Women request that Provincial Councils of Women report findings of any research in their respective provinces, and report such findings to the NCW Environment Chairman.
